

The Key Elements of A Successful Aging Environment

Purposeful Programming:

- Incorporates the four components of successful aging
- Designed around the strengths and opportunities for growth of the population
- Data driven
- A continual focus on growth

Resident Engagement:

Residents/members take ownership and leadership in the successful aging culture, demonstrated through active contribution and involvement throughout the organization.

Culture: Successful Aging research and principles are the environmental and operational core of our organization.

Team Member Engagement:

Successful aging principles are incorporated into team members' interactions with one another, with residents/members, and in their personal lives.

Leadership: Strong, unwavering, and visible commitment to successful aging; demonstrated by actions toward maximizing growth and potential throughout the entire organization.

Outreach: Our organization is positioned as an expert in the aging field, forming partnerships to benefit the greater community, and furthering the movement of successful aging throughout the country.
